SECTION A - READING

1. Read the following passage carefully.

1. 'The Buddha' is a title, not a name. It means 'The Enlightened One' or 'the One who knows'. The Buddha's real name was Siddhartha. He was the son of a Sakya king in northern India. He and his family were all Hindus and belonged to the Gautama clan.

2. Gautama Siddhartha was brought up in luxury. He lived in his father's palace and saw nothing of the outside world until he was a young man. Then one day, accompanied by his charioteer Channa, Prince Siddhartha went round the city. On his way, he saw sights that he had never seen before. First, he saw a man who was very old and was bent with age. Then he saw a man who was suffering from a terrible disease, possibly leprosy. And then he saw a dead man who was being taken to the cremation ground. These sights made the Prince very sad.

3. Now a complete change came in Gautama Siddhartha's life. He was filled with a longing to find the cause and cure of human suffering. He wanted to find the true meaning of life and help his fellow men. Although he was married and had a baby son, he left his home in search of truth. He was then only 28.

4. First of all, Gautama went to two Hindu priests. He wanted to know from them the cause of human suffering. But the priests could not give him any satisfactory answers. Now Gautama tried to live the life of an ascetic. For six years, he tortured himself so that he could become indifferent to any kind of pain. He was reduced to a mere skeleton. But eventually, he realized that all this was foolish and useless. Now he sat in deep meditation under a bo tree near Gaya (in Bihar). Here at last he attained Enlightenment and found the answers to his questions. He was then 35 years old.
